

Volunteer Spotlight: Nathan Due

After retiring from the Edgewood Police Department as a Police Sergeant in 2022, Nathan Due began volunteering in at the St. Elizabeth Cancer Center in the Infusion area, the same place he received treatment just one year prior during his own battle with cancer.

"I feel like I have a unique perspective to share with people and can help them better understand what they're going through." From assisting patients with ordering meals, stocking supplies, or offering a listening ear, Nathan provides comfort to those walking the same path he once followed.

Nathan shares that he was inspired to become a volunteer after the interactions he had with current volunteers during his own treatment. "I enjoy the feeling of making connections – seeing the smiles and the familiarity with the people that return each week for treatment."

"Take the leap," Nathan encourages to anyone interested in volunteering. "It's flexible and everyone is very friendly."
